

WHAT TO DO?

The Fighting Goats of Poznań

These mechanical goats first battled it out in the year 1551, all because of an overcooked deer. At the heart of the square is Poznań's Town Hall, topped by three turrets with a clock tower in the middle. As the time inches towards noon the assembled crowd waits for the bell to toll, craning their necks to watch two iron billy goats glide out and face each other. As they have done since the year 1551, the goats butt heads twelve times to strike the midday hour.

It's a lovely tradition, with an unexpected origin story.

Back in the middle of the 16th century there was a chef in town (some versions call him "Pete") who was charged with cooking an elaborate feast for the mayor and some visiting dignitaries. Pete set about preparing some roast deer, but things didn't go so well. Distracted by the festivities of the big event, his beautiful joint of venison ended up falling off the spit, straight into the fire, burning to a crisp.

Pete needed some new meat, but the butcher had no more venison. In a desperate move to save the meal (and his own neck) he grabbed two grazing goats from a nearby meadow, but they escaped his grasp and darted off towards Town Hall. They ran up the stairs into the tower, catching the attention of the crowd below when they emerged from the turret, locked horns and began to battle it out. The crowd included the mayor and his guests, who were more charmed than they were angry about the meal, so Pete and the goats were pardoned.

A new clock was in the works for the Town Hall, so the mayor ordered that two goats be added to the mechanism, cuckoo clock style. They got to take a long break in the battle, after their tower had been badly damaged in 1675. In 1913 they were restored to the clock, and they've been taking noonday center stage ever since. Luckily for the crowds down below it's always a draw, so they'll be back again tomorrow to fight another day.

KontenerART – an interesting alternative to the clubs located in the city centre

A popular public space and cultural centre, opened every year from May till September since 2008. During the day you can take part in a variety of art workshops or listen to some interesting lectures while lying in a hammock. In the evening you can take a sip of your favourite drink while listening to a concert or live DJ sets. If you get hungry, you can enjoy the food that is being served by a couple of foodtrucks nearby. Last but not least, the place is located next to the river, which makes it even more attractive.

Where? Ewangelicka street, near the city beach

"The most important thing is to have fun"

I've heard that it isn't your first EUSA tournament. So where have you been before?

Alessandro Tirozzi: I started here in Poznań in 2010 and this is my ninth edition. So every day here is a great pleasure for me to come to EUSA tournament, because we have a lot of people coming from several parts of Europe and so we have fun, we have basketball but we also have to stay together and enjoy our time.

Has Poznań changed a lot?

AT: A little bit. Not about the dormitory - it is the same <laugh>. But I found a little bit change even in the transportation, the food is good - better than 10 years ago, so we it's some kind of progress <laugh>. It's going to be good road to the finals and we'll see.

What is the most appealing thing for you to participate in EUSA tournaments?

AT: Most appealing is to stay together with the people, enjoying and improving for watching and working in basketball. But the most important thing is to enjoy and have fun, and to share it in a cool way.

Why have you decided to become a basketball referee?

AT: It was a lot time ago, about - let me check - 28 years ago. Even if I am 23 <laugh>, but this is a miracle. It is a funny way to be in the basketball. You can perform as a player, a coach, a manager, but even as a referee. The referee is a part of this world. You can have fun and enjoy even with a whistle.

And for you, what is the most fun part of basketball?

AT: I like everything about basketball, but the most important thing is to enjoy it together. I mean that everyone wants to win, but this week we are here and we have the chance to get to know other people and share a lot of time with them, to know their language and talk with them.

If you have to choose one thing to encourage your friends to visit Poznań, what would it be?

AT: Come to Poznań, because here are a lot of clubs, a lot of beautiful girls, a lot of monuments and a lot of funny situations. And it is very cheap. I like it. I think I will come again sometime in the future. The last thing I want to tell you is FORZA CUSB! It is very important and means "Go CUSB", so write it down <laugh>.
